

DRESS FOR THE DATE

YOUR DATE STYLIST

Good first impressions are never more important than in dating. Judgments are instantaneous. You only have seconds to avoid, "I'm not feeling it..."

Introducing...

DRESS FOR THE DATE

It's unfortunate when two people who might have been a good match don't get to explore what they have in common because one partner doesn't look the part. Many guys just don't know how to put together a look that is stylish and also fits their body type. But how can you guide a guy toward a look that will work better for him? That's where we come in.

Dress for the Date works with your clients to help them identify their personal style, which in turn gives them confidence, visual appeal - and gets them to the next date so the couple can have the time they need to find common ground.

Why Work with Us?

In short, we will make your clients look their best so that they increase their chances of connecting with their match. Your clients will have improved self-esteem, which in turn will make them more desirable and more successful with their dates because they will get to talk and spend time together, enabling the couple to bond at a deeper level.

Our Experience Benefits You

Dress for the Date Founder/CEO and lead stylist Jennifer Kelton is an accomplished entrepreneur, fashion expert, author, social media innovator, and dating advisor who has been investigating the game of love for 30 years. Kelton is founder and CEO of Bad Online Dates, Dress for the Date, Green Knights Entertainment and Bad Date TV, as well as the author of Don't Use My Sweater Like a Towel. Kelton designed and launched several of the world's first eco-friendly fashion clothing lines, with international distribution and private-label lines for numerous accounts, including The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and major recording artists Blues Traveler and Phish. Her work has been featured on CNN Living, Ryan Seacrest, SheKnows.com, Huffington Post, The Washington Post, iPad News Tracker, TIME Travel, Seattle Weekly, ABC KGTV San Diego, CBS, KTVU FOX Oakland, Mashable and countless other media outlets. With DressfortheDate.com, Jennifer draws on all of her dating and fashion design talents to show daters why the right outfit can make all the difference when looking for love.

How Can We Help?

Do you have a client who needs a little (or a lot!) of help? Nice guys don't have to finish last. We have packages to fit any budget. Whether it's a Skype call to help a guy put together outfits from clothing he already owns to in-person shopping consultations to build the perfect outfit, we can help your clients feel and look their best. Schedule an appointment so that your clients can make the most of your great matches.

Contact
Jennifer Kelton

310-880-3459
dressforthedate@gmail.com

www.DressForTheDate.com